

ATOMIC LEARNING

Online Tutorial Resource

Atomic Learning is an online resource that has hundreds of short video clips that answer questions about a variety of software applications, including Word, Excel, and Power Point. There are also tutorials on a number of Internet applications.

Have fun exploring. If you have additional questions, please email one of us.

Barbara Folkeson, Kelly Benning and Mary Ann Hamre

<http://www.atomiclearning.com>

Username bfolkesson@lvusd.org
mhamre@lvusd.org
kbenning@lvusd.org

Password atomic

The screenshot shows the Atomic Learning website homepage. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Atomic Learning logo on the left and links for "Log In", "Subscribe Today", "My Profile & Settings", "Help", and "FAQ" on the right. Below the navigation bar is a dark blue menu with "Home", "Products", "How to Buy", and "About Us" buttons, and a "Text Size:" control on the right. A red banner below the menu reads "DON'T MISS: 21st Century Teaching & Staff Development webinar Register Here". The main content area is divided into three columns. The left column, titled "Atomic Learning provides:", lists several categories: "Online Professional Development For Teachers", "21st Century Skills Training", "21st Century Skills Teacher Assessment", "Technology Integration Resources", and "Curriculum". The middle column features a large image of a smiling woman pointing at a green chalkboard with "Atomic Learning" written on it. Above the image is the text "Technology training that moves you from 'How do I do that?' to 'How do I apply that?'" and below it is the text "Atomic Learning's professional development training solution allows you". The right column, titled "Take a look at our training & projects", contains three buttons with right-pointing arrows: "Step-by-Step Technology Tutorials", "21st Century Skills Tech Integration Projects", and "Workshops on Emerging Tech Topics".

Click on the Log in button and type the username and password (see above)

You can search Atomic Learning several ways

Find an Answer to a Tech Question

- Click on this box
- Then type a question or a few keywords about the problem
- You can further define the question by selecting the platform (PC or MAC) and the software application.

Browse available training and projects

- In the drop down menu labeled Applications, click on the arrow and scroll until you find the software application.
- Platforms – allows you to select PC or MAC

The screenshot shows the Atomic Learning website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Atomic Learning logo, social media links (Become a Fan, View our Blog, Join the Conversation), and user information (Welcome Barbara Folkeson, Log Out, My Reports, My Profile & Settings, Help, FAQ). Below the navigation bar is a dark blue menu with links for Home, What's New, Extras, Support, Upgrade Options, and a Text Size control. The main content area is divided into several sections. On the left, there are promotional banners for 'Earn college credit using Atomic Learning' and 'Featured resources' including 'Training & Staff Development at Lincoln Public Schools' and '3 Keys to a Successful Laptop Initiative'. The central section is titled 'Find an Answer to a Tech Question' and contains a search form. The form has a text input field for 'Enter your keywords or tech question:', a 'Select desired filter(s):' section with three dropdown menus (Applications..., Versions..., Platforms...), and a 'Search' button. The rightmost section is titled 'Browse Available Training & Projects'.